Commentary

During the first quarter 2022, the Axiom Concentrated Global Growth Equity Strategy ("Strategy") underperformed the MSCI ACWI Index ("Index") net of fees. The Strategy has outperformed the Index on a net of fees basis over 3-year, 5-year, and since inception periods.

This quarter, the MSCI ACWI Growth Index underperformed the MSCI ACWI Value by nearly -9%. This was the worst quarter for the global growth index performance relative to the global value index in over 20 years. Historically, such pronounced market rotations have often been followed by periods of growth stock recovery. Earnings remained resilient across Axiom's holdings, with the preponderance of the portfolio seeing forecast upgrades. As a result, the price correction left Axiom's holdings at more attractive levels for longer-term performance. In addition to growth-stock multiple compression, underlying sector performance of the index return also presented a challenge. For example, energy was by far the best performing sector in the index followed by materials, particularly metals and mining. Both sectors benefited from elevated global inflation and the supply shock which resulted from the Russian invasion of Ukraine. The worst performing sectors included many of the 'growthier' parts of the global economy such as consumer discretionary, communication services, and information technology. Many of Axiom's challenging stocks this quarter were longer term contributors that suffered a price correction despite continued earnings growth. The investment team collaborated intensively to re-underwrite existing investments while making prudent adjustments to portfolio holdings to manage risk, capture opportunities, and reflect evolving market conditions.

The top performing sectors on a relative basis during the first quarter were communication services and consumer discretionary given their underweight in the portfolio and consumer staples, driven by strong performance from Costco. Information technology, health care, and industrials were the largest relative detractors for the quarter.

From an individual stock perspective, the best relative contributors for the quarter were Costco, which is a US based retailer whose membership model is benefiting from the current levels of elevated food inflation and Blackstone, which is a US based alternative asset manager that continues to benefit from favorable asset flows. The largest detractors on a relative basis were SVB Financial Group, which is a US based bank that has been impacted by lower valuations for growth companies and ASML, the Dutch semiconductor capital equipment company, that has also been impacted by lower valuations for growth companies as well as by some recent supply chain challenges.

Global equities have rapidly adjusted to reflect challenging current macro-economic conditions creating opportunities in public markets for longer-term investors. While recent market turbulence is unsettling, it is notable that the S&P 500, for which data is available, rose during all seven Fed hiking cycles since 1975, gaining over 16% on average. The median Fed tightening cycle lasted 15 months with nine hikes for a median benchmark rate increase of 3.25%, roughly in line with current market expectations for this cycle. The Fed joined the global monetary tightening cycle, which started over one year ago in emerging markets, as global inflation concerns intensified during the quarter largely because of the energy and commodity supply shocks associated with the Russian invasion of Ukraine. These supply shocks combined with tight global labor markets and the residual impacts of COVID more than offset recent signs of improvements in global supply chains and evidence of rising wholesale channel inventories. While current growth remains healthy with especially strong labor and housing markets as well as tailwinds from re-opening and residual stimulus, investors are increasingly factoring in the risk of a recession. The widely followed 2-year to 10-year interest rate spreads recently briefly inverted anticipating a possible recession in one to two years. Again, as with the Fed tightening, these concerns might be creating public market opportunities for longer-term investors. Following all yield curve inversions since 1975, markets rose over 70% of the time gaining 8% on average from the first day of inversion to the end of the subsequent recession, again using the S&P 500 as a reference given the long-term data availability. During the past few Fed tightening cycles growth stocks on balance outperformed but earlier cycles sometimes favored value stocks. As we have for over 25 years, the team at Axiom will continue to navigate challenging markets by seeking out attractive dynamic growth investment opportunities, implementing our disciplined risk-aware portfolio construction, and focusing on remaining value-added long-term stewards of capital.
